COMMENTS ON PROGRAM FOR WORLD PEACEWilson Address Taken Up
By Von Hertling Before
Reichstag CommitteeDEMANDS LEADERS SET FORTH NEW PROPOSALSNo Difference Between Germany and Wilson Regarding Freedom of Seas

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Berlin, Thursday, Jan. 24, via London, Jan. 25.—Count von Hertling in his address before the Reichstag committee, said that the evacuation of Russian territory was a question which only concerns Russia and the central powers.

Commenting on the 14 points in the program for world peace set forth in President Wilson's address to congress, the chancellor said an agreement could be obtained without difficulty on the first four points.

Regarding other points mentioned by President Wilson, the chancellor said some difficulties would be met with.

Germany never demanded the incorporation of Belgian territory by violence, the chancellor asserted.

He said the state of Poland would be decided by Germany and Austria-Hungary. When all other questions had been settled, he added, Germany would be ready to discuss the question of a league of peace.

The chancellor declared that Germany did not wish annexations by violence, but that the question of Northern France could be discussed
only by France and Germany.

He asserted there could be no talk of the cession of Alsace-Lorraine.

The chancellor demanded that the leaders of the nations at war with Germany set forth new proposals.

The terms outlined by President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George contained certain principles which could be accepted by Germany, he said, but the concrete proposals were unsatisfactory.

Count von Hertling said the question of the limitation of armaments was quite open to discussion.

The chancellor added that the financial position of all European countries after the war would probably operate most effectively for the solution of this problem.

Count von Hertling contended that Alsace-Lorraine was almost purely German territory, which had been seized from Germany by violence.

When Germany, in 1870, claimed the land, "it was not the conquest of alien territory," the chancellor declared, but what today is called dis-annexation.

There is no difference between Germany and President Wilson regarding the freedom of the seas, Count von Hertling said. He added that the thorough freedom of navigation during time of war, as well as in peace, was one of Germany's main demands, it being eminently important for future free navigation that England should be made to relinquish her strongly fortified salting of support of international sailing.

STRINGENT ORDERS
REGARDING CLOSING
OF BUSINESS PLACES

The orders issued yesterday by the federal state fuel and food administration clear up much of the ambiguity in the order of last week for the closing on Mondays, and some of the rules regarding the fuelless days are more stringent.

The Ohio administration sent out a telegram yesterday ordering the closing of cigar and confectionery counters in stores permitted to stay open on Monday. This is to protect stores which sell these goods that have to close.

The order relating to the sale of liquor includes hotels, grill rooms, cabarets and other places that sell liquor as well as food. Hotels will not be forced to close but they must not sell liquor.

The new order also says: All food stores, wholesale and retail, including commission house, jobbing concerns and food dealers must close their doors at noon, Mondays, maintaining only heat enough to prevent freezing the rest of the day.

The order also says: "Retail food stores shall not operate cigar or confectionery counters, even though in the same room which is heated. Hotels open as restaurants must not operate cigar and confectionery counters."

Following the issuing of the order for closing last week it was announced that the order had been modified to permit groceries to stay open all day, but that has been withdrawn and they must close at noon.

County Fuel Administrator J. S.
Herzog announced this afternoon that pool rooms over the county may remain open Monday but must close on Tuesday and that cigar and confectionery counters in such places must be kept closed Monday except for the sale of newspapers and periodicals.

THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
CAUGHT PIRATING NEWS; WALKS INTO A TRAP SET BY THE UNITED PRESS

New York, Jan. 25.—The United Press Association announces that the International News Service, against which the Associated Press recently secured an injunction to prevent the pirating of news, had walked straight into a trap set by the United Press to show that the International News was pirating the news of that organization.

The International News Service incidentally brought into newspaper fame a hitherto unknown official "Under Foreign Secretary Nelotsky," whose name, spelled backwards, reads: "Stolen" with the "Ky" thrown in "for Russian camouflage." The United Press early yesterday inserted "Nelotsky" in a dispatch from Petrograd, but soon afterward "killed" this name to all its papers. Within a short time, however, the United Press says that papers receiving the International News Service appeared with "M.
Nelotsky" figuring prominently in an alleged dispatch from London recounting in a general way the same facts set forth in the United Press cable from Petrograd.

The United Press says it made sure the Nelotsky story was sent over the wires of the International News Service. The story was printed in papers receiving the International News Service in Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, San Francisco, Newark, O., and elsewhere.

ARMIES ABANDON
PLAN TO OVERRUN
VENETIAN PLAINS

(Compiled from A. P. Dispatches.)
Peace negotiations between Austria-Hungary and Russia, on the basis of no annexations and no indemnities will be continued, and, in the opinion of Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, peace between the two nations can be assured if Russia maintains the same attitude.

This declaration, coupled with the statement by Chancellor von Hert-ling before the Reichstag yesterday, that Germany, too, hopes to reach a "good conclusion" with the Russian delegates at Brest-Litovsk indicates complete confidence on the part of the central powers as to the final success of their separate Russian plans.

In view of the demands of the German delegates that Courland and the Baltic provinces be given up by Russia, and the declaration of Count Czernin that the dual monarchy will demand no annexations and no indemnities, a question of policy is raised that endrods further negotiations at Brest-Litovsk in doubt.

On the question of a general peace Count Czernin is quoted as having told the Reichstag that he considered President Wilson's latest peace proposals as an approach to the Austro-Hungarian point of view.

While there were several points in common, Count Czernin said, yet
there remained the fact that Austria-Hungary, as the ally of Germany, would fight to the bitter end in defense of her alliance. He expressed the opinion that once peace controvers have reached, peace with Russia, that the entente nations would be forced to conclude a general peace, despite the efforts of their statesmen to the contrary.

Before the main committee of the Reichstag yesterday Chancellor von Hertling also discussed peace with Russia, but without making mention of the reported demands of the German delegates for the annexation of Courland and other territory. The chancellor said that the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk had been resumed and that he held fast to the hope that peace would result. Both the German imperial chancellor and the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister remarked on the change in the tone of the recent speeches of President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George, but the former disagreed with certain foreign newspapers that Mr. Lloyd George's speech could be interpreted as either showing an earnest desire for peace, or friendship for Germany, declaring that to the contrary the British premier seemed to adjudge Germany guilty of all possible crimes. Referring to President Wilson's speech the chancellor said there was no difference between Germany and the United States regarding the freedom of the seas.

Abandonment of the plan to overrun the Venetian plains seems to have been decided upon by the Austro-German armies and is indicated in the retirement from the Piave river westward due to the constantly harassing attacks by the Italians and their French and British allies.

On other fronts intensive bombardments are reported from several sectors and infantry and air raids continue on an extensive scale.

THE RAILROAD SITUATION IS MUCH BETTERGeneral Freight Embargo
May Be Removed By MondayGREAT IMPROVEMENT IN THE MOVEMENT OF COALZone System For Distribution Is Being Arranged
By Officials

Washington, Jan. 25.—Successful re-routing of much western freight over southern lines and better weather today over most of the east, prompted railroad administration officials to declare that the general freight embargo now imposed on three eastern trunk lines, would be removed by Monday of Tuesday.

Coal movements were reported far greater today than at any time in the past 10 days.

A zone system for coal distribution is being arranged by officials of the railroad and fuel administration today as the next step necessary to speeding up deliveries by clearing the traffic congestion.

Mr. Morrow, organizer and secretary of the National Coal Association, who was put in charge of coal distribution and apportionment by the fuel administration last night, will supervise all loading and transportation arrangements. Formal announcement of the details of the zone plan, which also will be under his control, is expected shortly.

Officials expressed the belief that the proposed system will prove effective in eliminating long and cross hauls and make another serious coal shortage this winter impossible.

Although the embargo, effective on eastern lines yesterday on virtually all freight except fuel and municipals, allowed the railroads to move larger quantities of these commodities, weather conditions still hampered the free movement of freight in many sections. Householders and trans-Atlantic shipping interests, however, continued to receive increased supplies.

Many industries still felt the effects of the fuel administration's order giving preference to more essential manufacturing plants and the quantity of freight offered the railroads showed a marked decrease.

The question of increased wages for railroad employees was under consideration by Director General Mc-Adoo's railroad wage commission today as the result of a conference the director had yesterday with the heads of railway mechanical trades.

Mr. McAdoo, who was told that the exodus of skilled workers from railroad shops to industries paying higher wages would continue unless more pay is given railroad men, promised to give the matter careful attention.

Demand of the four railroad brotherhoods, made on the railroads before the government took control, also are being considered by the wage commission.

MUTINOUS GERMAN SAILORS FIRED INTO BY COMMANDANT AND 44 ARE REPORTED KILLED AND 73 INJURED

London, Jan. 25.—A German naval engineer with the rank of Lieutenant, who has deserted from Kiel, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to The Daily Express, states that dissatisfaction among the men of the German navy are much more serious than in the army. He asserts there have been important revolts, generally among the crews of mine sweepers.

Three weeks ago a squadron of mine sweeping trawlers were sent out from Hamburg on an expedition in which three men were lost in an encounter with the British and one of the trawlers was damaged. Before the men were permitted to go ashore, according to this account, they were notified that they must report back for duty within an hour. They asked time for rest. The Hamburg commandant refused, whereupon 150 men declined to obey the order. An hour later a lieutenant named Wagner arrived and ordered the men to return to their boats. They refused. The lieutenant swore at the men and struck two of them the dispatch continues. He was thrown into the water and left to drown.

The commandant who had watched the mutiny despatched a motor boat carrying two machine guns which were fired into the crowd of sailors, killing 44 and wounding 73. The others were arrested and sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from five to twenty years.

trict court here today announced he pany, of New York, to intervene in the receivership suit brought by the

A-73 and A-79 was of German origin.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio,
Jan. 25.—Every select in the Eighty-Third Division is to be instructed in the gentle art of picking off unsuspecting Germans by the process of sniping in the next few weeks. Under the supervision of Lieutenant Lessemore of the English army, and officers of the military intelligence department stationed here, twenty officers have been taught the rudiments of sniping, observation work, map reading and sketching, and the like. In addition 100 non-commissioned officers have been instructed in the same work.

The officers and non-commissioned men will act in turn as instructors to the units, when they finish their courses under the British veterans at the end of this week. During the next few weeks the selects will be given the benefits of the instruction these men have received.

The battalion selects with special technical skill, who in December volunteered for immediate service in France following a call from General Pershing were getting settled in their quarters today at the detention bar-acks, where they will spend the next two weeks in quarantine. At the end of this period they will be held in readiness for a call to leave.

For stealing a pair of leggings valued at five dollars, George O.
Chesher a wagoner in the supply company of the 323rd Infantry yesterday was sentenced to be dishonorably discharged from the service and to forfeit all pay and allowances during the term of confinement at hard labor in the camp, for a three month
he will be taken to Fort Leavenworth.

"French leave" taken by Private Joseph W. Kaylor of Company B, 323rd Machine gun battalion, will cost him six months at hard labor and two-thirds of his pay for three months.

Two selects today were ordered discharged from the service because of insanity. They are private Joe Unchak of Cleveland and private Michael M. Ball of Bellefontaine.

Six additional candidates for commissions in the third officers' training camp here have been ordered returned to the organizations which sent them at their own request. Sixteen candidates are said to have found the pace too hot at the officers' school and have been returned to their regiments.

Paris, Jan. 25.—Premier Lloyd George and Viscount Milner, members of the British war council are coming to Paris to confer with Premier Clemenceau, says Marcel Hutin,
in his newspaper, the Echo de Paris.
Their visit will coincide with the meeting of the supreme war council at Versailles.

"It is unnecessary to underline the importance of these deliberations," said M. Hutin.

CLAIMS TO HAVE TAKEN POISON IN A FIT OF ANGER

Ethel Harrison, aged 24, living at 95 Lincoln avenue, was rushed to the City Hospital in the Bazel ambulance this morning after she announced she had taken bichloride of mercury tablets.

The people living in the house with her stated she told them she had taken the poison after she had become angry over something. Devoted to her mother, she was called to attend her and there has been no change in her condition. How much of the poison she took is not known.

routes, such as Gibraltar, Aden and Hong Kong.

The four first points in President Wilson's speech respecting which Chancellor von Hertling said an agreement could be reached without difficulty, related to abolition of secret diplomacy, free navigation of the seas outside territorial waters, subject to international laws; removal of economic barriers and establishment of equal trade conditions among nations; reduction of armaments.

The fifth point, in regard to which the chancellor said some difficulties would be met with, provided for impartial adjustment of all colonial claims based upon the principle that the interests of the population concerned must have equal weight with the claims of the government whose title is to be determined.

Regarding points nine, 10 and 11 in President Wilson's speech, Count von Hertling said he must leave the answer in the first to the Austrians, but that where German interests were concerned they would be defended energetically.

The ninth point in the president's speech called for readjustment of the Italian frontiers along clearly recognizable lines of nationality; the tenth for free opportunity for autonomous development of the people of Austria-Hungary; the eleventh for the evacuation of Rumania, Serbia and Montenegro, free access to the sea for Serbia and adjustment of the relations among the Balkan states, with international guarantees of their independence.

Count Hertling said he would not forestall Turkey's attitude towards point 12 in Mr. Wilson's address but he added that the integrity of Turkey and the safety of her capital closely were connected with the question of the strait which was of important vital interest to Germany.

"The geographical situation of Germany in itself had always brought near to us the danger of war on two fronts, and now it became increasingly visible. Between Russia and France an alliance was concluded whose participants were twice as numerous as the population of the German empire and Austria-Hungary. Republican France lent the Russia of the Czar billions to construct strategic railways in the kingdom of Poland in order to facilitate an advance against us. The French republic drew on its last man for three years of service. Thus France, with Russia, built up armaments extending to the limit of the capabilities of both, thereby pursuing aims which our enemies now term imperialistic.

"It would have been a neglect of duty had Germany remained a calm spectator of this game and had we not also endeavored to create an armament which would protect us against future enemies. I may, perhaps, recall that I as a member of the reichstag very frequently spoke on these matters and on the occasion of new expenditure on armaments pointed out that the German people in consenting to these, solely desired to pursue a policy of peace and such armaments were only imposed upon us to ward off the danger threatening from a possible enemy. It does not appear that any regard was paid to these words abroad.

"And Alsace-Lorraine of which Lloyd George speaks again? He speaks of the wrong Germany did in 1871 to France. Alsace-Lorraine— you need not be told but abroad they appear still to be ignorant of things—Alsace-Lorraine—Lorraine comprises as is known for the most part burly German regions which by a century long of violence and illegality were severed from the German empire and until finally in 1871 the French revolution swallowed up the last remnant Alsace and Lorraine then became French provinces.

"When in the war of 1870 we demanded back the districts which had been criminally wrested from us that was not a conquest of foreign territory but rightly and properly speaking what today is called dis-annexation and this dis-annexation was then expressly recognized by the French national assembly, the constitutional representative of the French people at that time, March 29, 1871, by a large majority of votes.

CHANCELLOR DISAGREES WITH FOREIGN PAPERS

(Associated Press Telegram.)

London, Jan. 25.—Count von Hertling, imperial German chancellor, disagrees with certain foreign newspapers, which interpreted the recent speech of Premier Lloyd George as showing an earnest desire for peace and even friendship for Germany, according to a Central News dispatch quoting from the chancellor's speech before the main committee of the reichstag yesterday. The chancellor, however, remarked on the alteration in the tone of the British premier's speech wherein he said Lloyd George had refrained from abuse and showed an inclination for negotiations.

The newspapers' interpretation of the speech was based, he believed, on Premier Lloyd George's declaration that he did not wish to annihilate Germany. On the contrary, the chancellor declared, the British premier seemed to adjudge Germany guilty of all possible crimes, adding: "We cannot understand such feelings or find therein proof of a sincere will for peace."

REFERS TO THE NEGOTIATIONS AT BREST-LITOVSK

(Associated Press Telegram.)

Amsterdam, Jan. 25.—In his address before the reichstag main committee yesterday Chancellor von Hertling referred to the negotiations with the Russians at Brest-Litovsk, saying he held fast to the hope that a good conclusion would be arrived at. He continued:

"Our negotiations with the Ukrainian representatives are in a more favorable position. Here, too, difficulties have yet to be overcome, but the prospects are favorable. We hope shortly to reach conclusions which will be economically advantageous.

"One result, gentlemen, might be recorded, as you all know. The Russians last month proposed to issue an invitation to all the belligerents to participate in the negotiations. Russia submitted certain proposals of a very general character. At that time we accepted the proposal to invite the belligerents to take part in the negotiations on the condition, however, that the invitation should have a definite period for its acceptance. At 10 o'clock on the eve of January 14 the period expired. No answer had come and as a result we were no longer under obligations and had a free hand for separate peace negotiations with Russia. Neither were we longer bound, of course, by the general peace proposals submitted to us by the Russian delegation.

"Instead of the reply, which was expected, but which was not forthcoming," Chancellor von Hertling continued, "two declarations were made by enemy statesmen—Premier Lloyd George's speech and President Wilson's speech. I willingly admit that Lloyd George altered his tone. He no longer indulges in abuse, and appears desirous of again demonstrating his ability as a negotiator, which I had formerly doubted. I cannot go so far, however, as many opinions which have been expressed in neutral countries which would read this speech of Lloyd George as a serious desire for peace, and even a friendly disposition. It is, true, he declares he does not desire to destroy Germany, and never desired to destroy her. He even has words of respect for our political, economic and cultural position. But other utterances also are not lacking, and the idea continually comes to the surface that he has to pronounce judgment on Germany, charging her with being guilty of all possible crimes. That is an attitude with which he can have nothing to do, and in which we can discover no trace of a serious purpose to attain peace. We are to be the guilty ones, over whom the entente is now sitting in judgment. That compels me to give a short review of the situation and the events preceding the war, at the risk of repeating what long ago was said.

"The establishment of the German empire in the year 1871 made an end of dismemberment. By the union of its tribes the German empire in Europe acquired a position corresponding to its economic and cultural achievements and the claims founded thereon. Bismarck crowned his work by the alliance with Austria-Hungary. It was purely a defensive alliance, so conceived and willed by the exalted allies from the first. Not even the slightest thought of its misuse for aggressive aims ever occurred in the course of decades. The defense alliance between Germany and the Danube monarchy closely connected by old traditions and allied to us by common interest, was to serve especially for maintenance of peace.

VON HERTLING'S ADDRESS COUCHED IN THE LANGUAGE OF A VICTORIOUS GENERAL

(Associated Press Telegram.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—Based on the speech, the outlines of the speeches of the German and Austrian premiers to their respective parliaments, the opinion is expressed by officials here that no substantial advance toward the final peace sought by all belligerents has resulted from these declarations. It is true that expressions of Count Czernin, the Austrian premier appear to be more conciliatory in tone than previous utterances from that quarter but beyond vague statements that the possibilities of peace negotiations are contained in the addresses of President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George there is no suggestion of a surrender of any of the extreme contentions of the military elements in the central states.

The renunciation by Count Czernin, the Austrian premier, of any claim against Russia for indemnity or annexation it is noted, does not extend to other nations. Considering that Germany has undertaken to dominate the Russian-Balkan provinces and that the central powers already have recognized the independence of Ukraine, thus constituting a buffer state between Russia and Austria, in large part it is perceived that Austria is making no special sacrifice in this renunciation. As for Poland, the declaration that the population would decide its own fate, is read here in the light of the action already taken by the central powers to set up a sham kingdom of Poland which in reality is nothing more than a dependency of Austria and Germany.

Attention has been directed to the fact that there is a singular resemblance between Von Hertling's statement that the terms outlined by President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George contain "certain principles which could be accepted by Germany, but the concrete proposals were unsatisfactory," and President Wilson's characterization of the terms proposed by the central powers as "an outline of settlement which if much less definite, seemed susceptible of liberal interpretation, until their specific program of practical terms was added." That program presented no concessions at all, either to sovereignty of Russia or to the preferences of the population with whose fortunes it dealt but meant in a word, that the empires were to keep every foot of territory their forces had occupied.

In making this comment, President Wilson suggested that the liberal statesmen of Germany who had conceived the first general principles of the peace offer had been overcome by the military leaders, when it came to a precise statement of aims.

That the sharp differences between the belligerents over Alsace-Lorraine continues, is evident from Chancellor von Hertling's speech for his declaration "that there could be no talk of the cession of Alsace-Lorraine" is the answer to Lloyd George's demand that these provinces must be permitted to decide their own fate and to President Wilson's expressed statement in the eighth point of his fourteen peace aims that "the wrong done to France by Prussia in 1871 in the matter of Alsace-Lorraine . . . should be righted."

In his former speech the premier appears to condone President Wilson's declaration in favor of freedom of the seas, he passes without comment over the very important condition in Mr. Wilson's statement which denies such freedom to nations which may break treaties and require punishment by other nations. This condition was expressly framed to meet the case of a country like Germany which brings on an unjust war and therefore denies Von Hertling's demand for free navigation "during time of war as well as in peace."

The German premier's concise statement that the question of Russian evacuation concerns only Germany and Russia is indirect conflict with President Wilson's sympathetic expressions in regard to Russia as well as his precise demands that the people of occupied territories may arrange their own future.

TROTSKY'S ADDRESS TO THE CONFERENCE AT BREST-LITOVSK

(Associated Press Telegram.)

Petrograd, Thursday, Jan. 24.—A detailed account of the Brest-Litovsk conference session following General Hoffman's bold statement of the aims of the central powers was published by the Smolny Institute today. Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevik foreign minister, addressing the conference declared that "the position of the Austro-Germans is now absolutely clear."

Continuing the foreign minister said:

"Germany and Austria seek to cut off more than 150,000 square miles from the former Polish kingdom of Lithuania, also the area populated by the Ukrainians and White Russians, and further they want to cut into territory of the Letts and separate the islands populated by the Estonians from the same peoples on the main land. Within this territory Germany and Austria wish to retain their reign of military occupation, not only after the conclusion of peace with Russia but after the conclusion of a general peace. At the same time the central powers refuse not only to give any explanation regarding the terms of evacuation but also refuse to oblige themselves regarding the evacuation.

"The international life of these provinces lies therefore for an indefinite epoch in the hands of these powers. Under such conditions any indefinite guarantees regarding the expression of the will of the Poles, Letts and Lithuanians are only of an illusory character. Practically it means that the governments of Austria and Germany take into their own hands the destiny of these nations."

Trotsky declared he was glad now that the central powers were speaking frankly, stating that General Hoffman's conditions proved that the real aims were based on quite a different level to the principles recognized on Dec. 25, and that real or lasting peace was only possible on the actual principle of self definition.

"It is clear," Trotsky declared, "that the decision could have been reached long ago regarding peace aims if the central powers had not handed their aims differently from those expressed by General Hoffman."

Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, German secretary for foreign affairs, replied to Trotsky, declaring in principle that General Hoffman's aims were the same as those advanced on Christmas. Throughout the negotiations, he said, the Germans had kept in view the ethnological boundaries but also the actual boundaries of the old Russian empire. He said that the central powers intended to permit free self-definition, so that the theory that the presence of troops would prevent this. Regarding evacuation Dr. Kuehlmann said that it must be taken up with the newly born, self defined governments.

"If general Hoffman expresses the terms more strongly," said Dr. Kuehlmann, "it is because a soldier always expresses stronger language than diplomats. But it must not be deduced from this that there is any dissension between us regarding the principles which are one whole and well thought out."

Dr. Kuehlmann consented to Trotsky's request for a postponement of the conference declaring, however, that it would be much pleasanter if they could finish the negotiations now as the formal record brought about many misunderstandings.

BAKER TO REPLY TO STATEMENT OF CHAMBERLAIN

(Associated Press Telegram.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—Secretary Baker today asked Senator Chamberlain to arrange an occasion at which all members of congress disposed to attend may do so, and hear a statement in reply to the senator's charge of inefficiency in the army.

Secretary Baker sent the following letter to the senator:

My Dear Senator Chamberlain—The question which has arisen with regard to the conduct of the war requires an explicit statement from me for the information of your committee and generally for the information of congress and the country.

"I feel that in justice I owe such a statement to the splendid officers and men of the army who have forgotten themselves and labored with self-sacrifice and as I think, success in the building of a great army.

"It is due also to the great number of men of business and of affairs who have accepted the invitation of the war department to come to Washington and brought their business experience, their talents and their judgment to the work in hand. And, I think the people of the country are entitled to have at large a summary of what has been done by America in the war.

"I, therefore, respectfully request that your committee arrange an opportunity for me to make such a statement and that the time and place be fixed as to enable all members of the senate and the house of representatives who are so disposed to attend."

"If this request can be complied with, I shall be happy to be advised at your earliest convenience of the time and place."

DEATH OF FORMER NEWARK WOMAN IN LOUISIANA

Mrs. R. D. Bowden of 113 North 13th street, has received word of the death of Mrs. Anna M. Hall, which occurred this morning at the home of her daughter in Edgerly, La.

Mrs. Hall, until a few months ago, had made Newark her home, living at 164 Granville street. She was the daughter of the late Isaac Southard of near Perryton, and had lived in Newark until shortly before Thanksgiving when she went to visit her daughter in the south.

The body will be brought to Newark for burial, but the time of the funeral has not been arranged. Interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

LEGISLATION FOR THE COLLECTION OF ALL ASSESSMENTS

In speaking today on special assessments for city and county improvements County Auditor Fred S. Wilson stated that in the past many property owners have refused on one pretext or another to pay the same.

Auditor Wilson states these taxes are for improvements which, the public needs and preservation of health, comfort and prosperity demands, and for which each and everyone obtains direct benefit.

Laws for their collection were doubtful and crude but special legislation has been enacted whereby the collection is made sure and certain, and if not paid promptly when due a penalty of ten per cent and interest at the rate which the bonds bear is added, an expense which no right thinking business man or woman would incur. Besides it imposes a very disagreeable duty upon the county auditor and treasurer.

Patriotism is another factor to be considered and so instead of paying in installments and penalties or delinquent taxes, pay them promptly and buy Thrift stamps or Liberty bonds from your surplus cash.

The name of Senator Wadsworth, of New York, who Francis J. Henry said is listed as a stockholder in Swift & Company, was brought into the testimony in a letter from Louis F. Swift appealing for help "in connection with a matter which is pending in congress."

Druggist Carl Brennan of Cambridge, reports that Mr. Hurd's high praise of Nerv-Worth came when that gentleman was a caller at the Brennan store to purchase a second bottle of the tonic. On being asked if the medicine was doing him any good, Mr. Hurd replied:

"It is the best medicine! Two years ago I had a stroke of paralysis which left me in bad shape. The doctors could do nothing. I had no appetite and could not remember anything. Was very nervous. A lady stopping at the hotel recommended Nerv-Worth. The first dose helped me and now I feel entirely a new man. I am 72 years old but eat more in one meal than I used to in three days. Regained my memory and getting over my nervousness. Sleeping and general health much improved. I think that by taking another bottle or two (of Nerv-Worth) will be entirely cured. ACTRESSES NOT LOUD DRESSERS BUT CREATORS OF FASHION.

Miss Leona Thompson, who has endeared herself to lovers of musical comedy throughout the country by her clever work and brilliant successes in the past years, and is conceded to be one of the best dressed women on the American stage, when shown an article by one of the leading theatrical writers and social workers of New York, in which the latter referred to the fact that women wear dresses on the stage which make you think they are chorus girls or theatrical performers, said: "I do not know, but whom I assume to be an intelligent and charming gentleman, cares to speak so unkindly of those of us who have chosen the stage as a profession. If, let us say, Mrs. Brown attends a theatre, she must surely notice that of necessity we actresses must use beautiful lines and beautiful costumes to our acts, otherwise we would be freakish and dull. We must look our best always on the stage and off the stage. And of Miss Thompson repeated with a puzzled expression, as if the idea of looking otherwise than charming off the stage had never occurred to her. "And off, and certainly off! Do you think we want people to point to us when we are on the street and say, 'There goes Leona Thompson the actress—how crudely, how ugly she dresses! That is not what we want; we want always to be ladylike and modest in our appearance. If we are not so by nature, we should have to be due from a business standpoint. The actress who wishes always the sensational lasts only so long in her individual sensations—and I believe this is true in other things as well as the theatrical profession."

"Oh, Boy," with Miss Leona Thompson in the title role, will be heard at the Auditorium tonight, and local women will have the opportunity to judge for themselves the truth of Miss Thompson's assertions.

AN EASY WAY TO HELP U. S. IN WAR WORK

The Treasury department at Washington requests the establishment of 600 saving agencies in Licking county for war savings stamps.

Stamps are now on sale at all of the banks, postoffices, many factories and stores, by all policemen and postmen and others but the government desires agencies established in many small stores in every section of the county, in offices and elsewhere, so as to make it easy for one to obtain stamps.

It is very simple for one to become a stamp agent. It requires practically no effort and no expense. All that is needed for one to buy a few dollars worth of stamps and then through the postman or bank obtain additional stamps as needed to have a supply constantly on hand. Merchants and others who are willing to render this important patriotic service are requested to telephone, the county chairman auto phone 23124, Saturday morning. Each agent will be supplied with "For Sale" cards, lithographs and such printed matter as he may desire for distribution. At present there are about 200 stamp agencies in this county. Four hundred more are needed. The list is to be published.

What merchant, manufacturer or professional man can refuse to render this little patriotic service that will cost him nothing and will involve very little effort?

War savings stamps are better than money itself, because money does not increase in value while war savings stamps are more valuable every month. They are not taxable, they may be redeemed against loss, they may be interest at any time by giving 10 days notice to the postmaster. They are backed by Uncle Sam. Every one who buys war stamps helps his government to win the war and at the same time he helps himself. Those who are willing to handle stamps and help Licking county to raise its quota of $1,236,180 are urged to telephone 23124, Saturday morning.

REGISTERING GERMANS.

The week of February 4 has been set aside for the purpose of registering unnaturalized Germans. These people will get a great deal more courteous treatment than if they were Americans living in Germany.

In the latter case they would be hustled around on the theory that they were guilty of being spies until they proved themselves innocent. In this country the very tolerant and good-natured officials will be apt to accept their statements until ground for suspicion is suggested.

The number of loyal German-Americans is larger than many people—particularly some politicians—may think. You can see that by the way in which the pro-German politicians have altered their tone of late. They evidently thought they could make votes by opposing the American war policy. But when they got next to their constituents they found that even the majority of those of German descent were against them. The positively disloyal element is not large numerically, though it is exceedingly active and terribly unscrupulous and dangerous.

This registration of enemy aliens is a thing that has started none too soon. It should have begun soon after the war started, when we set out to be neutral. At that time it was evident that many of our residents would not observe this neutrality. While the government was trying to treat all sides fairly, they were working day and night for Germany.

This registration should be absolutely thorough. No alien enemy should be permitted to slip through. The very many who are loyal and friendly to their new home will not be interfered with in any way. As to the others, we want their number.

OUR WAR AIMS.

"An evident principle runs through the whole program I have outlined. It is the principle of justice to all peoples and nationalities, and their right to live on equal terms of liberty and safety with one another, whether they be strong or weak. Unless this principle be made its foundation no part of the structure of international justice can stand. The people of the United States could act upon no other principle; and to the vindication of this principle they are ready to devote their lives, their honor, and everything that they possess. The moral climax of this, the culminating and final war for human liberty, has come, and they are ready to put their own strength, their own highest purpose, their own integrity and devotion to the test."—From President Wilson's Address, January 8, 1918.

SCHOOLS AND FUEL.

In some places the attempt has been made to save fuel by closing up schools. The fuel administration suggests that the one-session plan be used as much as possible. Some people are urging that the schools be closed for a vacation of some weeks, and run later in summer.

The best proposition in regard to the older schools would seem to be to run them as fully as they can even through the period of fuel shortage, so that the boys can be let out as early as possible next spring to do farm-work. But there is no doubt that many more schools could run on a one-session basis.

The one-session schedule has become pretty general in high schools now, and in most schools the session could be shortened as a temporary expedient in a time of fuel scarcity. The pupils could do all their studying at home, and so to the school merely for their recitation periods.

The old-time school ran on a long and tedious system. The morning session was apt to begin at 9 o'clock and end at 12, and then there was a session from 1.30 to 4.30. The children became weary from sitting in one position so long. Just as much work was done by the schools that cut the session down to five hours. Some schools run on a four-hour schedule, and if the recitations are well-conducted, there is no loss.

Parents are apt to like a fairly long session, as it takes care of the children and gives the home-folks a period of quiet when they can restore a little order in the home. It would be folly to limit the educational advantages of our children, even in this exigency. The short years of school-life are their one chance to get a start in the world, and if this opportunity is seriously interrupted, they will always feel the difference. But a fairly short session need not limit school efficiency, and for the next few weeks it would save a little fuel.

THE FREIGHT CONGESTION.

The congestion of freight near the centers of population has become a terribly acute problem, and one that will take all the technical skill our railroad men possess to straighten out. It is aggravated by a volume of freight greatly increased by war goods. The cold weather placed physical difficulties in the way of motive power. Back of it all is the fact that our railways were allowed to run down and lack any adequate equipment.

But the immediate thing is to get the freight moved. Around the big terminals it appears that trains have to unload away out in the country. Then the contents have to be transported to their destination or some other terminal by motor truck. Manifestly this wastes a great deal of time.

Business men can help materially, when they have goods come in by freight, by removing the same from cars and freight houses at the earliest possible moment. If they can't get truckmen, they should detail some of their own force. Much of the trouble comes because freight cars are allowed to stand on sidings for a needlessly long time.

Railroad men should expect to put in a strenuous time of it for the next few weeks to get this tangle straightened out. They will be liberally paid under their present wage scales—more than most workmen earn. It is a time when much overtime work will have to be done. It is the workingman's chance to get ahead. Everything he does to help straighten out the mess into which our transportation has fallen will help him set on a better financial basis. Every week should be freight-moving week now until this paralyzing congestion is cleaned up.

THE WEEKLY POTATO DAY.

The time has come for a concerted drive on the Irish potato. Last fall the grocery trade joined hands with the food administration to this end, but there were complications in the crop—drought and field frosts which caused a yield of small potatoes and hurried damaged potatoes to market, putting prices below the profit point. Growers in some sections, and in other places, coupled with railway congestion, putting prices too high for free consumption. Now, most of the troubles of last year's crop seem to be over. There are plenty of potatoes in most markets, with satisfactory supplies steadily coming in. We need a long strong pull all together on potatoes—grower, grocer, and consumer all doing teamwork to get good potatoes to market and put them on the people's tables at reasonable prices.

A new device for selling has been worked out. The retail grocer is advised to look over his weekly schedule of deliveries, choose the day when trade is slack make a special price on potatoes for delivery that day, and fix Potato Day in his community as a weekly event. This is an improvement over potato week and potato month, both of which concentrated too much attention upon this food at one time and led to market disturbances. One potato day each week makes no abnormal demands upon the farmer or the railroads, and so will not disturb prices or cause shortages or gluts. One potato day a week will enable the retailer to fill up a hollow place in his sales and delivery service, and keep his money and his employees busy. One potato day a week will enable the consumer to use this valuable food article as a balance in diet, and reduce living costs, and conserve wheat and meat for our fighters and the allied nations. With organized sales effort behind potatoes, handled at decent profits through the entire grocery trade of the country, there will be no need for consumers storing the tubers themselves—in some ways this amounts to a form of hoarding and disturbs the market. Potato day each week should be a fixed event, from now until the 1917 crop is eaten up next June.

THE ARMY'S CLOTHES.

Reports begin to come in now as to how the soldiers like the clothing handed out to them by the government. It is not an unimportant matter. If a soldier feels comfortable in his togs he will endure hardship and fight a lot better.

The army hat is pretty generally condemned. This broad brim affair was conceived for its use in Mexican and Indian fighting. It worked very well along the Texas border, where the hot suns beat down on the soldier's face. But in France, where the weather is cool, this is unfitted. When a soldier rides on a truck or automobile, or even when on foot, the high wind gets under the broad brim and he has to spend his energy hanging onto his hat with both hands. The fatigue cap is far more popular.

The tight stand-up collar on the army coat is very much disliked. In winter it gets a man's throat tender, so he is liable to coughs and colds. In summer it will be a source of intense discomfort. It is reported that the war department couldn't consider the matter of a low collar like that on the English uniform, as it was a mere matter of style. If the swivel-chair generals were out in the trenches next July, they would think differently.

There is a demand from France for more hob-nailed shoes. The rough work in those trenches needs about the same kind of footwear that is given to miners in this country, who almost universally wear some kind of a nail-studded sole. Also the soldiers are longing for rubber hip-boots for wet and snowy weather of which they have so much.

Conditions under which this fighting are to be done are wholly new. Some board or official should take up the question what changes in the uniform and regulation supplies are needed to meet trench conditions.

INCOME TAX.

In making out his income tax return the farmer is allowed to deduct the compensation paid to men employees but a line is drawn as to the compensation of women employees. If a woman's entire time is employed in taking care of the milk and cream prepared for sale, in the production of butter, cheese, etc., the care of milk cans and churns, or if a separate table is maintained for farm laborers and her services are used entirely in the preparation of their meals and caring for their rooms, the compensation paid her is a deduction item. If, however, she is employed in caring for the farmer's household, no deduction can be claimed.

Income tax returns must be filed with the collector of internal revenue in the district in which the taxpayer lives on or before March 1.

The fact that a man is cussing the government on account of the coal order does not prove that he has tried to save a pound of fuel in his own home or business.

There are a good many people who are patriotically willing to take hold and work for the war provided they get twice as much pay as they ever had in peace times.

When they see or hear anything suspicious many people instead of telephoning the police, go home and cuss the government for not getting the spies.

Also, the most logical theory of our ancient friend, Mr. McGinty's distinguished exploits and career, is that he was a successful submarine commander.

The men who like to lie a-bed late Sunday morning are convinced that the churches should close up on account of the fuel shortage.

Of course, the German spies can't be executed, as there is always a comma or a semicolon missing in the indictment against them.

TERRORISM AND TREASON.

(Philadelphia Record.)
Trained to military service as the German nation has been, from the cradle to the grave, a "nation in arms" as it has boasted of being, the German nation has done nothing remarkable in a strictly military way. The soldiers have fought well, but so have the soldiers of all the belligerent nations. At Ypres and at several other encounters, notably on the Marne, the Germans have been stopped or driven back by inferior forces of the allies.

The generalship of the Germans has not been superior to that of the allies. They defeated the Russians at the Mazurian Lancers, but there were other places where the Russians won over the Germans. In Italy Germany sent assistance to that lame duck of an ally, Austria-Hungary, and not even German military prowess has been able to drive Italy further back for almost three months. In fact, German generalship has not been at all marked. The German commanders have usually relied upon the weight of numbers, and on the west have been steadily beaten since the first three months of the war.

Instead of achieving success by "mailed fists" and "shining swords" and "shining armor," and all such stage properties, the German reliance has been chiefly upon the two weapons of terrorism and treason. Terrorism the Germans have practiced systematically since their first troops entered Belgium and Poland and Serbia. With that they have sought to break down, not the armies confronting them, but the power of nations to maintain those armies. Treason they have tried to stir up in every country arraigned against them. They have tried it in Ireland with very small success. Whatever success they may achieve with the Russians will be almost entirely the result of inciting troops to mutiny and the population to treason. They resorted to the same foul weapon against Italy, and gained a victory on the Isonzo last October, since which they have gained nothing. Their system of espionage and corruption, spread throughout France, paralyzed that nation last year just as it was striking a decisive blow. The details of this nefarious campaign we are likely to get in the Caillaux trial.

In this country German spies and conspirators have been working from the beginning of the war. They have tried to destroy our factories and the steamers carrying our exports, to control congress, to affect the selection of president, to defeat the conscription law, and to scare the timid out of military service. Within a few days German service has got warnings of a secret conspiracy to destroy steamers and piers and warehouses in New York. This is believed to have been a much larger and more comprehensive plot than the others that have been exposed, and which have sent some Germans to the penitentiary and others to internment camps.

What military successes Germany has obtained were due to the fact that it sprang the war upon the world when it was unprepared, and other nations were not. But for success over its enemies it has relied chiefly on the two abhorrent forces of terrorism and treason.

That the ruins of Palenque, in the state of Chiapas, Mexico, are covered with a dense tropical forest? They consist of vast artificial terraces of cut stone surmounted by edifices of peculiar and solid architecture, also of cut stones covered with figures in relief, or figures and hieroglyphics in stucco, with remains of brilliant colors. Most of the buildings are of one story, but a few are two and three, and some may have been

It was faced with cut stone, cemented with mortar made of lime and sand, and the front was covered with stucco and painted. These ruins were in the same condition when Cortez conquered Mexico as now, overgrown with a forest.

Got Any Coal?
What is the matter down there in Ohio. What's all this fussing about? Why are you always complaining, oh, my, oh, why are you all, in a pout? A shortage in cars and in coal, you say. No one is moving a wheel. The problem is growing worse every day. And no one can get a square deal.

The Girl He Left Behind.
A soldier in Camp Sheridan A goes slowly to his tent. At evening's close to seek repose, For he is tired and spent, From likes and drills o'er fields and hills.

And marches left and right, Thru which he'd gone from early dawn Till darkness fell at night.

His drowsy head upon the bed No sooner falls it seem, Than weary bones have ceased their groans. And he is lost in dreams. And while he sleeps there somehow 'Tinto his busy mind, A picture of his own true love, The girl he left behind.

He sees her then as she was when (How quickly time doth pass.) He stood a lad careless and glad, And she a sweet young lass. The happy hours in sunlit bowers, That day of joy and bliss, When vows were said with lowered head, And sealed with love's first kiss.

And then the day he marched away, Among a cheering throng, She said "good bye" with tear-wet eye. "Be faithful, dear, and strong." Remember we back home will be Thru sorrow and thru joy, Come woe or wack, as true as steel, To our brave soldier boys.

With happy smile that comes the while The soldier's face is blest. His dream is far and he once more, Sinks into peaceful rest. For with a just and perfect trust, This thought keeps in his mind, No slacker churl can win the girl That he had left behind. —I. G.

The following letter was received from Sergt. Ross Simpson, 324th H. F. A., Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., by Mrs. W. F. Graef of Clinton street, who recently sent a large cake to the boys in camp from Newark.

Camp Sherman, Jan. 18, 1918.

Mrs. W. F. Graef,

Dear Friend:

Received your letter yesterday and the cake today. It was sure fine of you to think of us all and I announced at dinner that you had sent to the Newark boys a fine cake and could get a piece just after dinner and they just gave one yell. Those homemade cakes etc., are sure a treat to us all. It has been very cold for a week but with plenty of clothes we manage to get over the worst of it so far. I hope that the worst of it is over. We were quarantined on account of our second lieutenant having the scarlet fever and it was lifted Wednesday. It is fine to get out after having to stay in for awhile. We have had our dinner postponed twice now, I hope the next time we are able to be there as I know how much trouble you all have been to. (Also that we all had our stomachs set for it.)

I thank you for the cake for all the boys and can assure you that your kindness has been appreciated by all. I will close with best wishes from all. Sincerely yours, Sergt. Simpson.

Why not make a potatoes Friday and a sugarless Saturday?

Milady's Boudoir

Complexion Complaints.
Many a woman seems to think that complexion care means a few minutes spent each day on that small surface of skin covering the facial bones, which is a very foolish assumption. Nothing ruins the complexion like a domineering disposition, a temper that is not controlled, a nature that forever seeks and never gives, or a tendency to brooding and discontent.

Sharp, thin lips, sagging lines about the mouth, a nasty scowl when the face is unconscious of scrutiny, will be the betrayers. Only the face that mirrors a sunny nature, full of love and goodwill, looks young at thirty and keeps young even through the forties.

But the hygiene of the complexion demands actual physical care as well as a sunny spirit, and first and foremost, comes the care that means wholesomeness of the digestion. Plain, wholesome food not highly seasoned, very little tea and coffee but plenty of clear cold water, these are the reliable helpers toward a blooming and fresh complexion.

Young people crave and require a certain proportion of sugary diet, but after twenty-five, the less sweets the better so far as the figure and the complexion are concerned. Strong acids should also be avoided, rich sauces and gravies and stimulents of all kinds. There is nothing better than fresh fruit. In winter one can scarcely eat too many oranges, grapefruit and apples. In summer peaches are the chosen fruit of beauty. Five or six a day will do much food and no harm. Berries have a tendency to promote uric acid and rheumatism, and in some cases they cause rash and even eczema of the skin, so they should be partaken of in moderation.

Apples are the complexion food for the whole year and, like clear water, they can not be partaken of too profusely. Apple sauce, diluted with water while hot, then allowed to cool and chilled with ice, makes a drink matchless for the skin. After the winter, also, drink gallons of water daily.

WITH THE INVENTORS
An electric fan features a new filter to cool the water as it passes through fabric tubes by evaporation without the use of ice.

Campbor production from leaves having passed the experimental stage in Formosa, the government has planted large areas in trees.

Chinese poultrymen preserve duck eggs fresh for many months by coating them with a mixture of ashes, tea dust, clay, salt and lime.

An American patent has been granted an English inventor for a shoe with detachable soles and heels, which can be easily replaced when worn.

FASHION HINT
This corduroy coat in jade, cut on practical lines, should take your mind off your rubbers and your frost-bitten ears. It's for those days in early spring when morning is no criterion for the day's weather.

Every Day Etiquette
"Should the man or the woman speak first when they meet on the street?" asked sixteen-year-old Edith.

"The woman should always show the first signs of recognition as this gives her a chance or not to continue an acquaintance as she thinks best," replied her aunt.

"Love is blind," quoted the Wise Guy. "Yes, most of the courting is done in the dark," snickered the Simple Mug.

You never can tell. The flower of the family may blossom into a wall flower.

Our Boys and Girls
The nursery is not a place in which parents and nurses take care of the children. It is the children's own room. The room, therefore, should have not only bright pictures on the walls, but it must also have furniture most suitable in size for a child's use. The nursery furniture for children falls generally into two classes. In the first class it is designed generally in patterns that are not found in the furniture for adults. One finds smooth wood with absolutely no corners to fall against. On the other hand, there is furniture that is but a miniature of the larger sizes. In such case it is felt that the artistry that is put into the grown up pieces, will not be at all amiss when applied to that for the use of a child and that the mimicry will but add to their quaintness and beauty. Such a set as this may be in ivory enamel wood, with conventional wicker insets. Tinted festoons of ivory colored flowers may decorate it with taste.

KEEPING SOLDIERS STRONG

Early in the world-war cod liver oil was selected to fortify the health of soldiers against the rigors and exposure of camp life and to help build up enduring strength.

SCOTT'S IS THE EMULSION

That actually guarantees the pure quality of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil which is refined in our own American laboratories. It is skillfully emulsified to promote prompt assimilation which is always difficult with the raw oil.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapiesin" is the Quickest and Surest Stomach Relief.

You don't know what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapiesin to neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapiesin occasionally keeps the stomach sweet, and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapiesin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it stops food souring and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Your stomach will digest your meals if you keep acids neutralized.

WHILE AT WAR

Woman of Ohio Suffer at Home.

St. BERNARD, OHIO.—"Five years ago, while passing through the critical time of life, I was about given up by all the doctors, but they told me that probably an operation would benefit me, so my husband called a specialist; he said I was too far gone to operate that I had about two weeks to live."

I had been advised by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Remedies, and as a last resort I sent for the "Favorite Prescription" and "Lotion Tablets." After a faithful use of the medicines I am, after five years, a living monument to God's mercy and Dr. Pierce's Medicines.

"My daughter and I are now both taking the 'Medical Discovery' for the lungs. I have taken three bottles and the pain in my lung has ceased and the cough is gone. I intend to keep on taking it. I thank God that I heard of these medicines; the 'Discovery' is also helping my daughter."—Mrs. ALICE WARSON, 315 Cleveland Avenue.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO.—"I am glad to speak highly of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I used it because I needed a tonic and also had a cough. I had used other remedies, which did little good. Then I took 'Golden Medical Discovery' and it helped me to get over the cough and made my health better."—Mrs. C. S. WILSON, 715 Broadway.

"Favorite Prescription," the ever-famous friend to ailing women, and "Golden Medical Discovery," the greatest general reconstructive agent both put up in liquid and tablet form, are to be found in nearly all drug stores. They have enjoyed an immense sale for nearly 25 years, which proves their merits as well as the statements made by users. If not obtainable at your dealer's, send $1.25 to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and he will mail large package of either tablets.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If Peevish, Feverish and Sick, Give "California Syrup
of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food is clogged in the bowels, passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again.

All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask ask your druggists for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

America's Heatless "Holidays"

While the New York World calls Fuel Commissioner Garfield's conservation order the "greatest disaster that has befallen the United States in this war," and other journals are equally emphatic in condemning it, many other American newspapers view the action with tolerance, as being a necessary war measure, the Boston Herald declaring that "we should not criticize military orders no matter how needlessly sweeping they seem, and in the same spirit we approach these provisions for the conservation of our resources."

The port of New York is part of the battle-line," says Public Service Commissioner Whitney of New York, in the Times, "and the people should realize this as clearly as if the battle-line lay in the Connecticut Valley. The coal situation is exceedingly critical and it is no time for public officials to rock the boat."

IN THE LITERARY DIGEST for January 26th, public opinion, as reflected in the newspaper press from all sections of the country, is presented in the leading article dealing with Commissioner Garfield's drastic coal conservation order.

All phases of the subject are dwelt upon in this article, and a careful reading of it will make clear to the American people just why this order was necessary, how it will be carried out, and what its probable effects will be.

PROVES ALLIES' CONTROL OF SEA

Cattegat Battle Shows Germans Fear to Take Chance.

STAND IDLE AS 11 ARE SUNK

Feetons Strike Nervously at Night and Flee, Not Daring to Go to Rescue of Own Ships—British Fight Openly in Daytime and Rescue Drowning Men From the Water—Reputation of German Navy Suffers.

The recent naval action in the Cattegat, where the British sank a German cruiser and ten armed patrol ships, is an example of the careful planning which lies behind every move on the naval chart. A comparatively insignificant force of British destroyers and light cruisers were the actual stage performers in the little Skagerrak drama.

The actual fight in the Cattegat began about seven o'clock in the morning and was over three hours later. The German fleet behind its fortifications received calls for help, but dared not take a chance—probably well knowing that any attempt to send out help would be confronted with enemies sailing out of the sea on all sides.

The Cattegat is a deep bay lying between Denmark and Sweden and leading out through the Skagerrak into the North sea, near the scene of the famous Jutland battle. A fog lay over the entire Cattegat throughout the action, and the British destroyers picked off their victims, one by one, and sank them.

Discredit German Captain's Story.

The German auxiliary cruiser Marie, which was leading the fleet of patrol boats, was a ship of 3,000 tons. Its captain, Herr Lauterbach, was wounded, but reached the Danish shore safely. His ship, which had four guns and a crew of 90, was "suddenly attacked," he said, in an interview with a Danish newspaper man afterward, "by a fleet of British destroyers and the shells fired by them descended with such rapidity that the men on the Marie were almost unable to use the guns. Only a few shots were fired before the ship was a mass of flames."

British and American naval men who have been on the China station in years past will remember Captain Lauterbach. He was known from Shanghai to Vladivostok as "Baron Munchausen" and is said to have been the most unpopular German naval officer in the far East.

Lauterbach's naval reputation will probably suffer somewhat from the Cattegat battle. His report that he fired his guns as long as possible is denied by his own men, who declared that Lauterbach was seized with "funk" as soon as the enemy appeared and that not a single shot was fired from the Marie's guns.

Presumably the Marie was making its way toward the trade route between Norway and Scotland, in hopes of repeating the successful German attack on the British convoy on October 17. The British commander concentrated his fire first of all on the Marie and then detached his fastest vessels to round up the escorting patrol vessels. This was thoroughly done after a hunt lasting nearly three hours. This action, it should be remembered, occurred in waters which the Germans regarded as practically one of their "inland seas."

The Cattegat is the gateway to the Baltic. The scene of the fight is 500 miles from the nearest British coast, but less than 200 miles from Kiel. The Germans held their favorite "interior lines," while the British forces had to cross the North sea, go up through the Skagerrak, and then around Skaw.

Enemy Afraid to Attempt Coup.
The Germans had every chance to execute a coup, cutting off the retreat of the British forces by bringing superior units up the coast to the entrance of the Skagerrak. That they did not dare to attempt this is evidence of their appreciation of the initiative and resource of the British navy.

An interesting comparison might be made between this clean victory by the British destroyers and the tip-and-run raid by the German light cruisers on a British convoy on October 17.

The Germans sent out two of their fastest cruisers in the darkness, struck their blows in nervous haste in the early morning hours, not pausing to rescue a single life of hundreds of combatants and noncombatants, then ran away northward to pass the remaining hours of daylight in hiding, and when night fell dashed down the Norwegian coast, and thus returned home without being intercepted.

On the occasion of the British victory the fight occurred not in the North sea, but on Germany's doorstep; not at night, but in daylight; not hurriedly or nervously, for 64 prisoners were taken, drowning men rescued from the water, thus providing another vivid contrast between German and British methods of warfare.

The return of the British squadron to its base was quiet and unostentatious. By nightfall they were off again on their business of sweeping the sea. The cruise of the fleet into the Cattegat and the little victory which the British won there without the loss of a single British life, while not largely important in itself, is a concrete illustration and proof of the manner in which the British navy control the seas.

Whether the Germans are better fed than they should be is a matter of viewpoint. A guest of a fine hotel would be dissatisfied with the food the United States furnishes and expert chefs from the big liners prepare. On the other hand, there are many people who would be pleased to get high quality western meat twice a day, as the Germans frequently do, with an abundance of vegetables, coffee, rye bread, butter, tea and stewed fruit. Steak is not unknown, although stews and roasts are more common.

Local sentiment is somewhat stirred by the fact that the United States officials do not enforce the meatless and wheatless days which Mr. Hoover urges on Americans. And criticism is directed because all purchases of food and selection of the daily menus are made by one of the Germans themselves. People ask what motive a German would have to conserve food for his country's enemies. This agent is D. Peinert, former purchasing agent in New York for the Hamburg-American line.

Officials in charge of the camp defend Peinert's selection on the ground that he is highly capable. They say that for months the per capita cost of raw food has been only 45 cents a day, and insist that the hogs fed on the garbage are squealing complaints of short rations. They have no orders from Washington to enforce the Hoover regulations, they add.

IMPORTS UNAFFECTED BY U-BOAT WARFARE

Figures for Ten-Month Period Show Only Slight Falling Off.

How little the submarine warfare has curtailed the exports from London to the United States since America declared war on Germany is seen in the official figures of the United States imports from the British capital. The figures for ten months ending with October show a decrease of only $18,000,000, with a total of $115,390,471. Last year the figures for the similar period were $133,740,783.

The principal articles imported from London and their value were: Rubber, $31,610,629; precious stones, $15,609,466; tin, $8,852,856.

The principal articles imported from London for the ten months this year were: Rubber, $39,770,603; precious stones, $15,435,592; tin, $9,390,001; art, $4,464,560; hides, $2,984,372; furs, $5,434,870; tea, $747,058; indigo, $1,197,101; wool, $929,047.

There is a slight increase in the imports of tin as compared with last year's figures, a decrease of about $8,000,000 in art imports; the figure for hides is about half what it was, and less wool was sent here from London, by approximately $500,000. Indigo also shows a decrease amounting to more than $1,000,000. Tea shows the most notable falling off, the figures being $4,436,508 for the 1916 period and $747,058 for 1917. There was no tea or wool imported from London last month.

LIFE LINES USEFUL IN ROUGH WEATHER

When seas are rough and wave after wave breaks over their ship the sailors on Uncle Sam's destroyers find these life lines mighty handy in getting about on the sea-swept decks. Destroyers' decks are low and the boats cut through the waters with great speed, so that often the entire ship is awash. Though the sea was not especially rough when this photo was made, the life lines were rigged up and the Jackie was clothed in readiness for rough weather.

Picking Apples on Shares.
Picking apples on shares is the way one Kansas university fraternity is fighting the high cost of living and at the same time storing up a winter supply of fruit. One farmer bargained with the Arcadia Chapter to pick his apples. The fraternity men picked 200 bushels one morning on shares, storing twenty bushels in their fraternity house as payment. This same chapter last year needed quilts, so they held a quilting bee and made thirty quilts.

Cocoon Oil Fine
For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulified cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months.

RED BLOODED MEN WIN OUT

They Are Always on Top.

It is a fact that red blooded men and women are at the top in every walk of life. Men and women with the driving force of red blood, rich in Iron and Phosphates do things, they get results.

Red blooded women are the heads of the happiest and most contented homes, they have the will and the desire to be real companions and helpmates.

Leadership and happiness is only for the men and women who are willing to keep their blood and nerves strengthened and nourished with Iron and Phosphates.

A prominent doctor says, "It is a crime that so many men and women lack the rich, red blood and strong steady nerve to achieve their ambitions. It is all the more so because thin, watery blood is unnecessary, as rich, red blood and strong nerves are within the grasp of everyone. Phosphated Iron makes pure blood by making new blood. It gives strength, brings color to the cheeks, increases the weight and appetite, drives away the blues and those sleepless nights, steadies and renews your nervous energy, makes you feel like a live one once again."

There must be something to it. Everyone who tries it is loud in praise of Phosphated Iron, and you have got to show people these days.

To insure physicians and their patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron it has been put up in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to give you pills or tablets. Insist on capsules. Evans' Drug store, and leading drug stores everywhere.

Manager Fenberg has arranged another most-pleasing program for Sunday amusement-seekers at the Auditorium in which June Caprice, popular William Fox star, will be seen in "Unknown 272." The story is that of a girl who rises from an orphanage to the position of the wife of a New York millionaire.

In this rise she meets with many temptations, but fate guides her safely over the traps laid for her, undoing by a scheming, unscrupulous couple of Broadway's day life.

This man and woman take the girl from the orphanage in Maine, bring her to New York, put her in a finishing school, dress her up in the latest fashion, and plan to sell her to the highest bidder among the young millionaires who are ransacking the city. The biggest spendthrift of them all, he who is called "The Golden Kid," drifts into the story, immediately at first, later as a part of the plot to sell the girl, and then, believing in the girl's goodness, he fools the schemers, and both the kid and "The Golden Kid" come out with flying colors.

"Patty" (Roscoe) Arbuckle, in his patent Arbuckle-Paramount comedy, "Out West," said to be the best comedy he has so far produced, is an extra added feature; also, the Hearst-Pathe News with latest world-wide events.

"The Man Who Came Back."
"The Man Who Came Back," which comes from a run of over one year (183 performances) in New York, will be seen at the Auditorium theater, Thursday, January 31, for one performance. This production of William A. Brady's, written by Jules Eckert Goodman, and founded on a short story of the same name by John Fleming Wilson, was the most remarkable success in contemporary New York theatrical annals. It seemed as if New York would never let it go, and when it did finally after 57 weeks, it was only because Miss Grace George had to have the playhouse.

In the cast will be Ben Nedelle, J. Irving White, S. B. Hamilton, Dorothy Bernard, Lavinia Shannon, William Blaisdell, and others.

"The American Miracle."
The building of the enormous cantonments in which hundreds of thousands of American soldiers will be housed while being trained for the big-smash in France, will be shown at the Auditorium theatre next week under the title of "Over Here."

"Over Here" shows the work of building a cantonment from the time the first blue-print was made until the soldiers marched in to take possession. It shows the construction of railroad tracks, water systems, the Auditorium today, arrived in Newark from Chillicothe at noon. Capacity houses ruled at Chillicothe and no doubt the same will rule here, for the advance sale is quite large.

June Caprice star of the William Fox photoplay "Unknown 272" was invited recently to appear before the students of the New York University school of Journalism and talk to them on motion pictures. Would you believe it of June? She was too bashful. She wrote them a letter.

Lyman Howe's newest Travel Festival comes to the Auditorium soon for a return engagement. Another most pleasing program is promised, most important being a remarkable tour of China, revealing a secret corner of the Celestial empire never before filmed.

Another Auditorium booking, is the big musical comedy success "Girl of my Heart" with Eda Ann Luke and a company of fifty artists. This attraction at the Duquesne theatre, Pittsburgh, this week is playing to turn-away business.

William Fox's Stupendous Production "Cleopatra" with Theda Bara now being shown at the Grand in Columbus to capacity crowds, will soon come to the Auditorium. This is said to be a most wonderful production and its appearance here will be eagerly sought.

Manager Fenberg reports a good sale of seats for "His Bridal Night," the big musical attraction at the Auditorium for Saturday matinee and evening. This is one of the season's hits and no doubt good crowds will see both performances here Saturday.

The Jewel Productions production of "The Man Without a Country" featuring Florence La Bode and H. E. Herbert is a most timely picture and will be seen at the Auditorium next Monday. This is the last picture that Miss La Bode appeared in.

H. Pennypacker, business manager of "The Man Who Came Back" Co., is in the city arranging for the appearance of his company at the Auditorium Thursday, Jan. 31st. This is a William A. Brady production and ran for 467 consecutive performances at the Playhouse, New York City. "The Man Who Came Back" is by Jules Eckert Goodman—from the story by John Fleming Wilson.

Abraham Lincoln, in the person of Benjamin Chapin, will visit the Auditorium early next month and will offer his most wonderful story of the life of Lincoln in "The Son of Democracy." There are ten two-reel features shown each week. This is a treat and no doubt all Newark will be interested in the showings.

You Kids Grow Up and All, Uncle Tom's Cabin, the best of them all, Wm. Kibbe's with two bands, two topys, etc., comes to the Auditorium, Feb. 18th.

ALHAMBRA.

Tonight and Tomorrow.
How many wives used to the refinements as well as the luxuries of life, would endure a husband who insisted in entertaining as guests vulgar mercenaries?

"It is in the refining atmosphere of well-bred society that woman blooms and flourishes. When their sensibilities are outraged in their own homes, it is only a question of figuring out the alimony," says Miss Edna Goodrich, who appears in a new Mutual release, "Her Second Husband," in which this angle of domestic life is the dominant note.

"If your husband's guest eats peas with his knife, gorges his soup, and displays an utter disregard for the savoir faire of the tete-a-tete, pursuing the monologue in a blatant voice—the fact that he has made a million in munitions is no redeeming feature in the eyes of a cultured woman."

"Every woman should insist that the amenities of social life be observed in her home, even when exigencies of business demand that she entertain her husband's associates in financial deals."

GRAND.

One of the most daring feats ever screened in photoplay is performed in the fourth episode of "Vengeance and the Woman." Greater cinematograph's wonderful melodrama serial, by Carol Holloway (Bessie Blake), famous adventure star. William Duncan (Henry Blake), is trapped by bandits on a shelf extending midway a cliff 100 feet high. Miss Holloway attempts to climb down to him, but a rock crumbles beneath her feet and she is plunged into space. Her fall is stayed and her life saved by the branches of a tree into which she falls. This scene was photographed in the Sierras in Southern California, and is only one of many thrills in this episode, which will be seen in the Grand theater on Saturday.

FIRST MOTORIZED BATTERY FORMED

Oklahoma Captain in Charge of the Most Modern Crew of Fighters

Doubtless there will be many completely motorized batteries before the present war is ended, but the honor of being first goes to Battery "C" 5th F. A., commanded by Capt. W. H. Capron, and formed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

A battery consists of four guns with their limbers, six ammunition trucks, a store truck and a machine shop or repair truck. In the case of guns of smaller calibre a tractor will haul a section of artillery which consists of a caisson and its limber and a gun and its limber. Much shorter poles are used than with horses, the end of the pole being provided with a lunet or eye, making the coupling for the tractor. Each tractor pulls a load of about nine tons.

The vehicles used are the six trucks, the Holt 45 h. p. Caterpillar tractor and a Dodge Brothers Touring Car.

A HOME RECIPE FOR WRINKLED, SAGGY SKIN

The famous saxonite lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing discolored pores, can easily be made at home. Ask your druggist for saxonite in powdered form, one ounce, and a half pint of witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bathe the face, neck and hands in the solution. Results are remarkable, and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as creases or folds about the neck, cheeks or hands. The tissue beneath the skin also becomes firmer and more solid.

One feels much refreshed and invigorated after using this truly wonderful preparation. Many women look five or ten years younger after using this only a short time.—Adv.

CHIROPRACTIC

"The Best Way to Health"

THE CAUSES OF DISEASE

1. Slight subluxations at this point will cause so-called headaches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry neck, facial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, etc.
2. A slight subluxation of a vertebra in this part of the spine is the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goitre, nervous prostration, la grippe, dizziness, bleeding from nose, disorder of gums, catarrh, etc.
3. The arrow head marked No. 3 locates the part of the spine wherein subluxations will cause so-called bronchitis, felons, pain between the shoulder blades, rheumatism of the arms and shoulders, hay fever, writers' cramp, etc.
4. A vertebral subluxation at this point causes so-called nervousness, heart disease, asthma, pneumonia, tuberculosis, difficult breathing, other lung troubles, etc.
5. Stomach and liver troubles, enlargement of the spleen, pleurisy and a score of other troubles, so-called, are caused by subluxations in this part of the spine, sometimes so light as to remain unnoticed by others except the trained Chiropractor.
6. Here we find the cause of so-called gall stones, dyspepsia of upper bowels, fevers, shingles, hiccough, worms, etc.
7. Bright's disease, diabetes, floating kidney, skin disease, boils, eruptions and other diseases, so-called, are caused by nerves being pinched in the spinal openings at this point.
8. Regulations of such troubles as so-called appendicitis, peritonitis, lumbago, etc., follow Chiropractic adjustment at this point.
9. Why have so-called constipation, neural troubles, sciatica, etc., when Chiropractic adjustments at this part of the spine will remove the cause?
10. A slight slippage of one or both innominate bones will likewise produce so-called sciatica, together with many "diseases" of pelvis and lower extremities.

NO SURGERY, NO MEDICINE, NO OSTEOPATHY

I use my bare hands to adjust the spine. By so doing I remove the cause of your disease. I do not treat the symptoms, if I did the cause would still remain and you would continue to be a chronic sufferer. It is far more logical to remove the cause, then the symptoms will disappear. If you want the symptoms treated go elsewhere; if you want the cause removed try Chiropractic.

The Normal Nerve and The Pinched Nerve

Notice closely the picture to the right. Two nerves are shown as they leave the spine. The upper one is large—normal—there is no pressure on it, and the organ innervated by it will function properly and will be healthy. The lower nerve is small because it is pinched as a result of a slight displacement of a vertebrae. The organ to which this nerve goes will receive only a small amount of nervous energy, and will be unable to function properly and disease will result. The only logical way to restore the organ to normal function and to health is to adjust the vertebrae back to normal. By so doing the pressure from the nerve is removed and the brain can then send 100% NERVE SUPPLY TO THE ORGAN. 100% NERVE SUPPLY TO ALL PARTS OF THE BODY MEANS 100% HEALTH.

FINE LECTURE AT HIGH SCHOOL BY BELGIAN SOLDIER

A crowded house greeted Captain de Beaufort of the Belgian army now a naturalized American citizen at the High School auditorium last night. Members of the Licking county war work executive committee and the Rotary club occupied seats upon the platform.

After the audience had sung America, Prof. O. J. Barnes introduced the speaker who held the close attention of the audience for nearly two hours. He is a man of strong personality, striking appearance and peculiar accent. He told of his personal experience in the great war of his interviews with Hindenburg, his life in the trenches and told of some of the atrocities that had come under his personal observation. Capt. de Beaufort was a war correspondent for a London Newspaper and had an opportunity for observation that comes to few men at the front.

One of the thrilling parts of his address was his reference to the way in which the people of France, England and Belgium received the news of America's entrance into the world conflict. He pictured the great task that is before the American people and urged unity and harmony and service.

"The first thing the American people must realize," stated Captain de Beaufort, "is that we are at war with the German Empire, the greatest military power in the world, then consider what we, the people who stay on American soil, must sacrifice to help the 'Spirit of Freedom' spread over the world for all time. Enthusiasm is a wonderful thing but to win this war our enthusiasm must be transformed into action."

The Captain stated that over eight thousand major operations were performed in the first ten months of the war, without the use of antiseptics because there was no money with which to buy these, but all is changed now, for the American Red Cross has taken the field. He stated that eighty thousand men had died the first year of the war because of lack of care. One instant he pointed out how happened during the battle of Verdun. Forty-two men were brought in to the field hospital with their wounds wrapped in paper and old rags because at that time the system of the American Red Cross had not been established as it is today.

We must settle this thing now and settle it for all time, or our children will have to settle it in ten or fifteen years, for if we don't, Germany is going to carry the war to our land. Then the United States will experience what Belgium is going through now.

"Every story we read of the terrible crimes committed by the German army in Belgium and France is true, even though it seems impossible," said the Captain. "Because the German creed of war is to make war so terrible that the civilian population will be afraid to raise a hand against a German soldier."

Captain de Beaufort formerly was war correspondent for the London Mail, and working in Germany under the disguise of an American before the war was declared by the United States. He learned more of the inside of German affairs than any other man now in the country. He told of one instance of a German spy, whom he had met many times in different parts of the world, say that the United States and England were the easiest nations in the world to obtain information from. The men of these nations always tell their wives the affairs of their daily life, and all this Branting has been a hard worker for the cause of peace and is at present busy among the few neutrals in his efforts to end the war. The famous Stockholm conference was his idea.
